

By any metric, Bob's story is a remarkable one. His industrious spirit and dogged work ethic transformed him from a kid selling newspapers on Hollywood Boulevard to a success in his chosen industry. Bob is a man whose professional accomplishments are numbered not just by the awards and accolades he's received, but by the glowing personal recognition he gets from peers and colleagues in his field. He's a man whose philanthropic contributions have tangible effects on the people and organizations he partners with. And he's a man whose personal life is as rich as any man could hope for: a wonderful wife and fabulous kids, five precious grandchildren to dote on, and many friends both near and far.
